

Lent is a time of grace, a spiritual journey that takes us from the desert to the cross, preparing us for the miracle of the Resurrection. It is not merely a symbolic period or just a reminder of the forty days Jesus spent in the desert; it is an invitation to walk with Him on the path of conversion, penance, and inner renewal.

In a fast-paced and noisy world, where distraction is the norm and sacrifice seems outdated, Lent stands as an oasis of silence and depth. It challenges us to step away from superficiality and enter into the Mystery, to rediscover our Christian identity, and to prepare for the greatest victory: the Resurrection of Christ, which is also the promise of our own resurrection.

The Desert: A School of Conversion and Encounter with God

Lent begins with the image of the desert. After His baptism in the Jordan, Jesus was led by the Spirit into the desert to be tempted by the devil (Mt 4:1-11). This passage is not a coincidence; it is a teaching for all of us.

In the Bible, the desert symbolizes purification, testing, and preparation. The people of Israel spent forty years in the desert before entering the Promised Land. Moses fasted for forty days on Mount Sinai before receiving the Tablets of the Law. Elijah walked forty days and forty nights to Mount Horeb, where he encountered God in the “whisper of a gentle breeze” (1 Kgs 19:12).

Why the desert? Because it is there that intentions are purified, temptation is faced, and we learn to depend solely on God. It is in solitude that we recognize our weaknesses, but also where we can clearly hear God’s voice.

Today, our “desert” can take many forms: silence in prayer, renouncing certain comforts, or struggling against distractions that pull us away from God. Lent invites us to make this time an opportunity to strip away what hinders our spiritual growth.

Practical Applications:

- Dedicate moments of daily silence for prayer and reflection.
- Identify the temptations that distance us from God and confront them with the help of grace.
- Practice moderation in how we spend our time, avoiding unnecessary distractions like excessive social media use.

Fasting, Prayer, and Almsgiving: The Three Pillars of Lent

Jesus left us three essential practices for living Lent authentically: fasting, prayer, and almsgiving (Mt 6:1-18). These are not mere traditions but concrete paths to conversion.

1. Fasting: Emptying Ourselves to Be Filled by God

Fasting is not just abstaining from food but an exercise of interior freedom. It helps us detach from the superficial and focus on what truly matters: God. It is not merely a spiritual diet but a way to say “no” to ourselves in order to say “yes” to God.

Practical Applications:

- Fast not only from food but also from harmful habits like excessive entertainment, judging others, or impatience.
- Practice moderation in material consumption to strengthen our dependence on God.

2. Prayer: Returning to the Heart of God

In prayer, we encounter the living God. Jesus teaches us that prayer must be sincere, humble, and constant. During Lent, we are called to intensify our prayer life, seeking a true dialogue with God.

Practical Applications:

- Dedicate time to prayerful reading of Scripture (Lectio Divina).
- Pray the Stations of the Cross to meditate on Christ’s Passion.
- Seek moments of Eucharistic adoration.

3. Almsgiving: Love Put into Action

Almsgiving is not just giving money; it is sharing with others what God has given us. It helps us break free from selfishness and see Christ in the faces of the poor and needy.

Practical Applications:

- Help someone in need without expecting anything in return.
- Offer time to a charitable cause or service in the parish.

- Practice gratitude and detachment from material possessions.

The Cross: The Center of Lent

Lent inevitably leads us to the Cross. We cannot live this season without contemplating Christ's sacrifice on Calvary. On the Cross, Jesus shows us love taken to the extreme: "No one has greater love than this, to lay down one's life for one's friends" (Jn 15:13).

Now is the time to ask ourselves: Are we willing to carry our cross? Jesus tells us, "Whoever wishes to come after me must deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me" (Mt 16:24). The Cross is not just a symbol of suffering but also of hope. It is the path to the Resurrection.

Practical Applications:

- Accept daily difficulties with faith and patience as part of our sanctification.
- Offer our sacrifices for the conversion of sinners and the souls in purgatory.
- Reflect on Christ's love and renew ourselves through the Sacrament of Reconciliation.

The Resurrection: Our Goal and Hope

Lent does not end at the Cross but in Christ's victory over death. The Resurrection reminds us that sacrifice is worthwhile, that suffering is not eternal, and that God's love has the final word.

Saint Paul tells us, "If we have died with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with Him" (Rom 6:8). Lent invites us to die to our old selves so that we may rise with Christ at Easter.

Practical Applications:

- Renew our commitment to the faith and the Church.
- Celebrate Easter with a pure heart, having lived a true path of conversion.
- Be witnesses of God's love and mercy in our daily lives.

Conclusion: A New Beginning

Lent is not just an annual ritual; it is an opportunity to transform ourselves and draw closer to God. It invites us to enter the desert with Christ, walk with Him to the Cross, and rise with Him at Easter.

From the Desert to the Cross: Lent as a Journey Toward the Resurrection | 4

Now is the time to decide: Will we remain the same, or will we dare to let God do something new in us? Lent is a call to action, to conversion, and to love.

This year, let's not allow it to pass as just another routine. Let's make the most of it to find God and allow Him to transform us. From the desert to the Cross, from the Cross to the Resurrection, and from the Resurrection to Eternal Life!
